Edited by Klaus J. Hopt, Professor of law and Director (emeritus) at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law, Hamburg, and Felix Steffek, Senior Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law, Hamburg

- Presents the most comprehensive comparative analysis available of mediation law, policy, and practice in Europe and throughout the world
- Assesses the European Directive on Mediation, which has given the practice new momentum in Europe by establishing a common framework for cross-border mediation
- Analyses current reform movements in countries beyond Europe, such as China, Japan and Russia

Mediation promotes the understanding and discussion of regulatory issues by presenting comparative research on mediation. It provides a comprehensive description and analysis of the law and practice of mediation in twenty-two countries.

Against this background, further chapters on fundamental issues clearly identify possible regulatory models and discuss central principles of mediation law and practice. In particular, the work considers harmonisation and diversity in the law of mediation as well as the economic and constitutional problems associated with privatising civil justice. To the extent available, empirical research is used as a point of reference in the critical analysis.

Readership: Academics and scholars of mediation; policy-makers; practitioners working on cases that involve mediation, especially cross-border cases.
